Illuminating Sermon by Professor of Dunwoodie Seminary — Parents Young Priest Present.

St. Patrick's church was thronged yesterday at the 10.30 service by friends and former school mates of Father James B. Moran, a native of this city. It being the occasion of his first mass.

It was a solemn high mass and adding to the impressiveness of the cerenony was the exquielte decorations of the altar and the beautiful illumination by hundreds of candles. Assisting Father Moran were Rev. Anthony J. Rothlauf of St. Joseph's Seminary Dunwodie, Yankers, N. Y., deacon; Rev. John Philip Foley, also of St. Joseph's Seminary, sub deacon; Rev. Jos. McAvoy, also of New York and Rev. James B. Nihili, master of ceremonics.

The sermon of the occasion was delivered by Rev. Francis J. Duffy,D.D., of St. Joseph's Seminary and who assisted at the ordination of Father Moran Saturday. In opening Father Duffy referred to the fact that the Christian church as left by Christ contained only a few hundred souls and that on one day St. Peter received 10 times as many Christians as lived at the death of the Nazerene. This he said was an indication of the building up of the church and showed that it was God's plan to leave it in the hands of a human priest.

He spoke of the power given to the priest, of the kind of men that were called to the priesthood and the way in which they are trained, holding up Father Moran as a good example to them of that character and training. He congratulated the priest on the time and place, in which his work was to be done and the people to whom he was called to minister, the United States in the beginning of the 20th century.

He spoke in the highest terms of the will be administered to thom, not by stranger hands, but by their own son God's priest."

In closing Father Duffy asked the prayers of the congregation, not that the young priest should be famous or successful in a world way, but that he should always be a good priest devoted to the people and with a love of God in his heart so that he might offer up the holy mass every day for years to come with the same devotion with which he is offering it up to-day.

At the conclusion of the mass the congregation, most of whom knew Father Moran as a boy, flocked to the altar and received the blessing of the newly ordained priest.

Father Moran was ordained at St. Patrick's Cathedral, in New York, Saturday by Bishop Cusack and as he has been ordained in the archdiocese of New York he will be assigned to a church in New York shortly. He will remain with his parents in Sasco Hill. Southport, for a short time and will then begin the duties of his vocation.

He was accompanied by Colonel Marston. "Where is the entrance," said the general," and how do you get anybody into it?" "Oh," said Colonel Marston, "that is not my lookout. I simply obeyed your orders."

> The Possibilities. A Richmond (Va.) judge tells a story which, illustrates the difficulty met in trying to stop the carrying of pistols. A tough youth was brought before the Judge, charged with firing a revolver in the street. The testimony in the case was to the effect that the young hoodlum had filled himself with whisky and had discharged his weapon in a crowded street. "Twenty dollars and costs," said the magistrate. "But, your honor," interposed counsel for the prisoner, "my client did not hit anybody." "Why, you admit that he fired the gun?" "Yes, but he fired in the air," explained the lawyer. "Twenty dollars and costs," repeated the judge. "He might have shot an angel." And the riotous fellow went to jail, not having the money to pay his fine.

> A Curious Custom. In Byfield, a small Northamptonshire village in England, a curious old custom is still observed in connection with the letting of certain land. The ceremony is held in different licensed houses in the vicinity, and the clergyman presides over the proceedings. The company, chiefly consisting of lacal farmers, is seated round a large table. Presently one of them rises and bids a certain amount, immediately walking round the table and out of the door. If this can be done before the next bid is made, the land is his for the season; If not, bidder No. 2 commences the walk, and so on. This curious auc tion occupies some considerable and causes great excitement.
